Vacancy – Member of the Cyber Committee of CIOR

The Cyber Committee brings together representatives of cyber reserve units from participating countries in CIOR. We are looking for a motivated and experienced reservist to represent its country and contribute to international cooperation in the cyber domain.

Who are we looking for?

We are looking for an active reservist working in cyber within national armed forces, with first-hand experience of the organisation and knowledge of operational readiness of cyber reserve units.

Relevant experience and qualifications include:

- Military and cyber expertise: Practical experience as a cyber-reservist, including recruitment, training, readiness and deployment of cyber reserve personnel.
- International experience: Experience representing the national armed forces in an international environment, for example through participation in international cyber exercises or training activities.
- Communication and networking: Excellent spoken and written English, diplomatic skills and the ability to communicate national perspectives effectively in a multinational environment.
- Professional attitude: The ability to handle sensitive information responsibly, distinguish between shareable and restricted information, and actively contribute to international discussions.

What will you do?

You will represent your country in the committee, which meets online monthly and at least once a year in person. You will exchange knowledge and best practices with representatives from other NATO countries. You will also contribute to addressing common challenges, developing international cooperation and organising the annual International Cyber Event (ICE). Knowledge and insights gained internationally will be shared with your national armed forces.

What do we offer?

An opportunity to strengthen international cooperation between cyber reserve units, contribute to the development of cyber reserve capabilities and build a valuable international network of cyber reservists.

Interested?

If you are an active cyber reservist with relevant practical experience, excellent English skills and an interest in international cooperation, we would be pleased to hear from you. Please note that active reservist status within the defence cyber domain and membership of the national reserve officers' association are required.

Join us and help shape the future of international cyber reserve cooperation within CIOR!
