Vacancy – Member of the Strategy and Communication Committee (STRATCOM) of CIOR

The Strategy and Communication Committee is responsible for promoting CIOR, its activities and the role of reserve forces to both internal and external audiences, national reserve organisations and other stakeholders.

We are looking for an enthusiastic, proactive and committed reservist who enjoys communication, teamwork and organising activities in an international environment.

Who are we looking for?

We welcome a reservist with an interest in strategic communication, public affairs and international cooperation. Professional experience in communication is an advantage, but the right attitude and willingness to contribute are equally important.

Relevant skills and qualities include:

- Communication skills: Excellent spoken and written English, with the ability to communicate clearly and professionally with an international audience.
- Hands-on mentality: A practical, proactive approach and a willingness to take responsibility and turn ideas into concrete communication products and activities.
- Organisational skills: Enjoying the planning and coordination of activities, events, publications and communication projects (social media).
- Diplomacy and teamwork: The ability to work constructively with colleagues from different countries, cultures and professional backgrounds, representing CIOR in a diplomatic and professional manner.
- Commitment and initiative: The willingness to actively contribute ideas, take ownership of tasks and support the committee's work on a regular basis.

Experience in journalism, public relations, media, photography, social media, marketing or public affairs would be particularly valuable.

What will you do?

You will contribute to promoting CIOR and strengthening its visibility and reputation among international stakeholders. Together with fellow Committee members, you will support communication activities, create and edit content for the CIOR website and social media channels, contribute to publications and help communicate the work and achievements of CIOR's committees and activities.

You will also support the communication and public affairs activities surrounding major CIOR events, working closely with the CIOR Presidency and the host nations. This offers plenty of opportunities to take initiative, organise activities and put your communication skills into practice.

What do we offer?

An opportunity to contribute to the international visibility of CIOR, develop your communication and organisational skills, work with colleagues from different NATO and partner countries, and help strengthen the position of reserve forces within the international defence community.

Interested?

If you are an enthusiastic and committed reservist, have excellent English skills and enjoy taking initiative, organising activities and working with people in an international environment, we would be pleased to hear from you. You do not need to be a professional communication specialist. A proactive, hands-on attitude, diplomatic approach and willingness to contribute are what matter most.

Join us and help make CIOR and the international reservist community more visible!
